INTRODUCTION

By JOHN R. SWANTON

This dictionary represents a portion of the results of nearly fifty years of missionary service among the Choctaw Indians on the part of its compiler, Rev. Cyrus Byington. Mr. Byington was also the author of translations into Choctaw of several books of both the Old and the New Testament, Choctaw almanacs; a Choctaw definer, a grammar of the Choctaw language, and some minor writings. His grammar, edited by Dr. D. G. Brinton, was published in Philadelphia in 1871, in the Proceedings of the American Philosophical Society (vol. 11, pp. 317-367). In the introduction to this grammar Dr. Brinton gives the following account of the author's life:

This eminent scholar and missionary, whose name is inseparably connected with the later history of the Choctaw nation, was born at Stockbridge, Berkshire County, Mass., March 11, 1793. He was one of nine children, and his parents were in humble circumstances, but industrious and respected. His father was at one time a tanner, and subsequently a small farmer. Necessarily, therefore, his early education was limited.

When a well-grown lad he was taken into the family of Mr. Joseph Woodbridge, of his native town, from whom he received some instruction in Latin and Greek, and with whom he afterward read law. In 1814 he was admitted to the bar, and practiced a few years with success in Stockbridge and Sheffield, Mass.

His father though a moral was not a religious man, and it seems to have been only after he reached manhood that Mr. Byington became, as he expressed it, "a subject of divine grace." He then resolved to forsake the bar and devote himself to missionary life. With this object in view he entered the theological school at Andover, Mass., where he studied Hebrew and theology, and was licensed to preach, September, 1819. At this time he hoped to go to the Armenians in Turkey. But Providence had prepared for him another and an even more laborious field.

For about a year he preached in various churches in Massachusetts, awaiting some opportunity for missionary labor. Toward the close of the summer of 1819, a company of 20 or 25 persons left Hampshire County, Mass., under the direction of the American Board of Missions, to go by land to the Choctaw nation, then resident in Mississippi. They passed through Stockbridge, in September, and were provided with a letter from the Board, asking Mr. Byington to take charge of them, and pilot them to their destination. He was ready at a few hours' notice.

The company journeyed by land to Pittsburgh, where they procured flatboats, and floated down the Ohio and Mississippi to a point near the mouth of the Yalobusha River, whence a land journey of 200 miles brought them to their destination. . . .

Throughout his missionary life Mr. Byington appreciated the value which a knowledge of the language and traditions of the Choctaws would have to scholars. From his arrival among them, therefore, he devoted assiduous labor to their language with a view to comprehend its extremely difficult construction, and to render it available for the missionary and philological student. The first draft of his Grammar was completed in 1834. It was written and rewritten, until at the time of his death, which occurred at Belpre, Ohio, December 31st, 1868, he was at work upon the seventh revisal.

As left by Mr. Byington, the Choctaw dictionary consisted of five paper-bound folio volumes, having entries on both sides of the leaves; the whole work was modeled after the English or classical dictionary of the author's time. Separate entries were therefore made of the same word when used as noun, adjective, verb, etc., each followed by a letter indicating the proper part of speech. The phonetic system was constructed for the greater part by employing the English letter representing most closely the Indian sound. Only two innovations were introduced—the use of v (a true v sound not being present in the Choctaw language) for the obscure a, and of lines under the vowels to indicate nasalization. For these devices I have substituted the more commonly used a and ṽ. I have also changed the aspirated l (hl) into l̄. The sh and ch have been allowed to stand, although it is now customary to represent these by c and tc, respectively. Furthermore, in many instances I have combined in one word syllables separated by Mr. Byington and later missionaries—as, for instance, the syllables indicating pronominal relations, the reflexive, the negative, and some of the tense signs—for it is evident that in these cases the syllables all constitute one complex. Undoubtedly absolute accuracy has not been attained in this particular, but the course followed is certainly a move in the right direction. With the exceptions just mentioned the material is reproduced substantially as recorded by the author. It would be fair neither to Mr. Byington nor to the editors, however, to present the dictionary as a finished work. In the quotation given above Doctor Brinton speaks of the great care which the missionary bestowed on the manuscript of his grammar when preparing it for the press; unfortunately he had opportunity to make only a beginning in the editing of his dictionary. Many entries consisted merely of brief notes to be elaborated later or of references to cases not observed elsewhere and to be explained by further investigations. But the plan which Mr. Byington had set before himself for his dictionary is one not now of much value to students of American languages, and to carry it to completion along those lines would involve an enormous amount of unprofitable labor. Therefore the work is presented almost as he left it, as a source of valuable linguistic, and also ethnologic, information faithfully recorded by one of the most capable of the early missionaries at a time when many things were to be learned which are now doubtless entirely forgotten. In order to increase the utility of the dictionary an English-Choctaw index has been compiled and appended, which will make it possible to find where information is to be had regarding the Choctaw equivalent of each English word or phrase given. This part is in no sense a dictionary, nor is it to be regarded as such.

As might naturally have been expected, Mr. Byington's inspiring motive was his desire to translate the Biblical writings into Choctaw and to further the conversion of the Choctaw tribe to the Christian religion. The present work contains therefore numerous references to early translations of the Biblical writings undertaken by him. From the changes incorporated into later editions it is evident that the exact shade of meaning was not always determined in those first efforts, but, in any event, perhaps it could only have been approximated, and no attempt has been made to alter the references except in a few cases where palpable errors had been made. Nevertheless, these citations have been verified as far as possible and a few question marks inserted where no words resembling the ones under consideration could be found. In other instances it will be noticed that Mr. Byington has ignored certain affixes of common occurrence which alter the exact form as it appears in the text.

Anciently there were several Choctaw dialects, but only one of these, that of the Sixtowns Indians living in the southern part of the old Choctaw country, differed to any considerable degree from the standard, or Longtown, dialect spoken in the western part of the Nation. Moreover, this difference seems to have been confined mainly to certain words, involving but very slightly the language as a whole. A number of these Sixtowns words will be found interspersed throughout the present work.

It has been my good fortune to have enlisted as coeditor Mr. Henry S. Halbert, of the Department of Archives and History, Montgomery, Ala., who has spent many years of his life among the Choctaw Indians, is familiar with their language, and is an enthusiastic student of everything relating to the history and present culture of the tribe. While he has noted and corrected many errors, he has deemed it best to let certain doubtful words and sentences stand as in the original manuscript, with the idea that they may represent certain dialectic or archaic variations which have escaped him.

Acknowledgment is here made of the courtesy of Mrs. Eliza Innes, of Lockesburg, Ark., daughter of the Rev. Cyrus Byington, and of that of her son, Mr. E. S. Byington, of Broken Bow, Okla., in placing at the disposal of the Bureau the photograph from which the accompanying portrait of the author was reproduced; also his notebooks for the years 1844-46 and 1861.

Abbreviations.—While a great many abbreviations have been used, most of these will be readily understood. C. B. or B. indicates the compiler, Cyrus Byington; J. R. S. and H. S. H., the editors, John R. Swanton, and Henry S. Halbert, respectively. Of the other abbreviations the principal are the following: a., adjective; adv., adverb; caus., causative; con., connective; dem., demonstrative; dim. or dimin., diminutive; fem. or f., feminine; freq., frequentative; imp., imperative; mas. or m., masculine; n., noun; nas. form or n. f., nasal form; per., personal; pl. or plu., plural; pro., pronoun, also prolonged; ref., reflexive; sing. or s., singular; v. a. i., active intransitive verb; v. i., intransitive verb; v. n., neuter verb; v. t., transitive verb. Besides these will be found the names and initials of various Choctaw Indians who are given as authorities for certain forms, and abbreviations of the names of other works in the Choctaw language.

The description of Choctaw phonetics which follows is taken from the first page of the manuscript dictionary, only such changes having been made as were necessitated by the innovations already referred to.

PHONETIC KEY

ALPHABET

Letters	Sounded
A a	as a in father.
À à	as u in tub, and a in above, around.
B b	as in English.
Ch ch	as in church.
E e	as e in they, and short e as in met.
F f	as in English.
H h	as in English.
I i	as i in marine and short as i in pin.
K k	as in English.

W w	as in war, we.
Y y	as in you.

DIPHTHONGS

Ai ai	as i in pine.
Au au	as ow in now, how.

NASALIZED VOWELS

A <sup>n</sup>	a <sup>n</sup>	} These are pure nasals, and retain the vowel sounds, except before the letter k , in which case they are like the long ang , ing , ong , ung . The usual sound is softer than ang , and like that of the French vowel followed by n in the same syllable.
I <sup>n</sup>	i <sup>n</sup>
O <sup>n</sup>	o <sup>n</sup>

CONSONANTS AND VOWELS

Let it be remembered that each consonant has but one sound and that the sounds ascribed to the vowels are such as they have, respectively, in accented syllables; in unaccented syllables they have the sound of short vowels. English readers should remember not to give the English sound to the vowels, except as noted in the alphabet.

a<sup>n</sup>, i<sup>n</sup>, o<sup>n</sup>, and u<sup>n</sup>, or some of them, are used as separate words or final syllables. They are used also before the consonants and semivowels b, f, h, k, m, n, s, sh, w, and y. Before the consonant p, sometimes before b and the vowels, for the sake of euphony the letter m is added, or the nasal sound becomes m of necessity from the position of the organs of speech at that time, as am, im, om, um.

Before ch, l, t, and l the letter n is added, as an, in, on, un, and before the vowels in many words the letter n is added to the nasal. a<sup>n</sup> is never used; a<sup>n</sup> is used in its place. The vowel e is never used as a nasal, i<sup>n</sup> being used in its place.

In making these remarks general rules are stated. It is not to be supposed that each and all of the nasals are thus used. There are exceptions, which the student must be ready to notice. An unwritten language has its anomalies and irregularities.

ak, sign of the first per. sing. of one of the forms of the imp. mood, as pisali, I see; akpisa, let me see.

ak, a particle of frequent occurrence in the Choctaw language. It is found, together with its compounds, in some form after nouns, pronouns, adjectives, verbs, adverbs. The sense of this particle varies according to the part of speech it succeeds. It is sometimes ak, then hak or yak (perhaps kak should be added, from k, definite, and ak). It follows verbs. It is used as an article and a relative pronoun. It is a word often used for designation or distinction, not only of a thing, i. e., a noun, but also of action and herein it differs from the English, except when we render the verb as a noun. In akoke, Matt. 2: 6, it is distinctive and marks one object from all others. It is usually rendered by the, that, one singling out from others; luak akkeyukma pilashpahe keyu, if it were not for the fire, etc. Compounds of ak are: akan, hakan, makan—akano—akat, akat, not used, akhet, being substituted—akatukã, the, Matt. 16: 12—akato, akato—akchoba—akcho? 2 Sam. 24: 13; akbano and akbato, sign of optat. mood—akbano, adv., that only—akbat, adv., that only (t makes the word the subject of some verb)—akhe, akhi<sup>n</sup>—akheno, in particular; especially that; and by way of disparagement—akhet, especially that one to his disadvantage—akheto, that in particular; contradistinctive, and disparaging (ãno akheto, how much less I, if you can not (bid at an auction))—akiv, contracted hashi, n., a sunflower.

hashi, n., a moon; a lunar month; a month, Josh. 4: 19; 5: 10.

[Mr. Byington says of the Choctaw months: "But very few Choctaws know all the names or know when the months come in or go out." At first he inserted a list of month names in alphabetical order without stating whether they were obtained from one person or from several. Later he obtained and recorded two others, one October 23, 1854, from Ilapintabi, and the other December 31, 1856, from Iyapali. Ilapintabi told him that the year began in the latter part of September, while, according to Iyapali, it was in the latter part of March. Both of these statements are reconciled by a subsequent note to the effect that the year was divided into two series of six months each, a summer series and a winter series. From the time when these are said to have begun, September 21 and March 21, it is evident that the autumnal and vernal equinoxes were taken as starting points. The list of months obtained from Iyapali is in almost complete agreement with the earliest list recorded by Byington, and therefore is probably more correct than that of Ilapintabi. It is as follows:

March-April,	chafo chito (from hohchafo chito , "big famine")
April-May,	hash koinchush .
May-June,	hash koichito .
June-July,	hash mali .
July-August,	hash watullak .
August-September,	tek inhashi .
September-October,	hash bihi .
October-November,	hash bissa .
November-December,	hash kaf .
December-January,	hash takkon .
January-February,	hash hoponi .
February-March,	chafiskono (from hohchafo iskiti-ni , "little famine").

Besides some inconsequential differences the earliest list has hash watonlak instead of hash watullak. No May-June month occurs in this list unless it is represented by "luak mosholi," the specific application of which is not given, and

- which appears to have been questioned by Mr. Byington's later informants. Since, however, a year of twelve strictly lunar months must be corrected at intervals to agree with the solar year, the editor suggests that luak mosholi, which means "fire extinguished," may have applied to an intercalary month or period at the time of the annual festival when the year began anew. Ilapintabi's list differs from that given only in inverting hash koi<sup>n</sup>chush and hash koichito, and hash mali and hash watullak, the first being made to fall in May-June, the second in April-May, the third in July-August, and the fourth in June-July.—J. R. S.]

- ho?, interrogative. See John 6: 29.
- ho, ho<sup>n</sup>, an art. used after a noun, usually rendered as a or an, the indefinite article; as nana ho pisali, I see a thing, or something. As the art. a<sup>n</sup> is written a<sup>n</sup>, ha<sup>n</sup>, and ya<sup>n</sup>, so this has three ways, o<sup>n</sup>, ho<sup>n</sup>, yo<sup>n</sup>, and chiefly for the sake of euphony, yet ho<sup>n</sup> usually follows a verb, yo<sup>n</sup> a noun, and o<sup>n</sup> a word which ends with a consonant, as wak o<sup>n</sup>, hatak o<sup>n</sup>. But the sense and the idiom of the Choctaw will not always admit of rendering ho<sup>n</sup>, o<sup>n</sup>, and yo<sup>n</sup> by the article a or an; nor will that of the English admit it wherever the Choctaw language does. It is also a relative pronoun, simple and compound, when compounded having different senses and used after different parts of speech; ho, ho<sup>n</sup>, hoh (see o, o<sup>n</sup>, oh), have the sense of the verb to be in the 3d person, or of the auxiliary; also to do; hachibaptismochilishke, I do indeed baptize you, Matt. 3: 11. Compounds: hocha—hoka, because, since, Matt. 5: 22—hokaka—hokakano—hokakant—hokakanto, Luke 1: 37; Chihowa hokakanto—hokakat (I have heard this particle used)—hokakato—hokakhe—hokakheno—hokakhet—hokakheto—hokakkia; mal, micha okhata aiena hokakkia, even the winds and the sea, Matt. 8: 27—hokakon—hokakocha—hokakona—hokakosh; ishpisa hokakosh, thou seest, Matt. 7: 3; chiahokakosh, thou art, John 3: 10; pi<sup>n</sup>sa hokakosh, they seeing, Matt. 13: 13; hahan<sup>k</sup>lo hokakosh, hearing, Matt. 13: 13; hashasha yokakosh, "ye dwell," Josh. 9: 22—hakat—hokamo (ho and kama); mintilihokamo,—hokano (from ho and kano); na holissochi aleha hokano, the scribes, Matt. 7: 29; itihhokano, their mouth, Matt. 15: 8; keyu hokano, which not, Matt. 15: 13; isht impa hokano to eat with, Matt. 15: 20—hokano, hokano, Josh. 1: 3, Matt. 16: 3; hahan<sup>k</sup>lo hokano, by hearing, Matt. 13: 13; pih<sup>n</sup>sa hokano, seeing—hokat, he who does, Matt. 5: 21—hokato, Matt. 5: 19, the one who does (distinctive by way of comparison), Matt. 5: 19; imachi hokato, Matt. 5: 22; atampa hokato, Matt. 5: 37; ishanumpulachin<sup>n</sup>hokato, Matt. 6: 6; ani keyu hokato, that bringeth not forth fruit, Matt. 7: 19; they that, Matt. 11: 8; chun<sup>k</sup>qash okato, their heart, Matt. 15: 8; banna hokato, Matt. 16: 25; abit iktalo hokato, Josh. 8: 26; hoke, final word; lawahoke, are many, Matt. 7: 13; ahauchihoke, do find Matt. 7: 14; isht imaholitopahoke,

- huttupa, hutupa, see hotupa.
- hu<sup>u</sup>wa, v. t., to scent; to smell; to snuff.
- i has the sound of e in me or i in pique and of short i in pin. The letter i is used for y in words where y is doubled in sound. The letter a often precedes i, thus making a diphthong. Thus yukpa, yukpachi, aiyukpa, aiyukpachi, and not ayyukpa, ayyukpachi. The consonant is doubled to express intensity.
- i, prep., meaning at, in, place where, as iksho. iksho belongs to the intensive form, but i occurs before other words, ichapaka, imoma, itikba.
- i, adv., there, used as above. It rarely occurs except before the word iksho and has the same use as a and ai before verbs. [Mr. Byington says, however, in a note: "This needs correction."]
- i<sup>n</sup>, pre. poss. pro. in the nom. case, 3d per., prefixed to nouns that do not begin with a vowel or with p, ch, l, or t. The noun is often in the poss. case, as miko<sup>n</sup>holisso, the king's book. It may be in the nom. or obj. case, but the pronoun in Choctaw should be parsed as a<sup>n</sup>, chi<sup>n</sup>, i<sup>n</sup>, pi<sup>n</sup>; a<sup>n</sup>holisso, my book; i<sup>n</sup>haiaka, visible to him; Matt. 1: 20. See im and in.
- i<sup>n</sup>, pre. per. pro. in the dative case before verbs and usually translated with a prep., s, of him, for him, etc.
- i<sup>n</sup>, his, their, 3d per. sing. and pl., removed from the noun in the nom. and placed before the verb, as tali holisso i<sup>n</sup>hotina, he has counted his money, etc., or he has counted the money for him. See chi<sup>n</sup>, hachi<sup>n</sup>, hapi<sup>n</sup>.
- i<sup>n</sup>, of it; from it, etc. There are a few instances in which i<sup>n</sup>, in, etc., seem to have the use of a prep. rather than a pronoun. These have the neuter gender. See Gen. 2: 17, ishpakmat i<sup>n</sup>mitak mihinli ho chillahioke; i<sup>n</sup>falamma, to the north of it; i<sup>n</sup>hopaki, far from it; i<sup>n</sup>misha, two days from it (every other day, i<sup>n</sup>mishakma).
- i<sup>n</sup>, contraction for inli, or in; maki<sup>n</sup>, aki<sup>n</sup> (for akinli).
- i<sup>n</sup>, oblique case of lish, ialish, iatin.
- i<sup>n</sup>, i<sup>nh</sup>, adv., yes.
